Site Description:

The Neklason Lake Radio Relay Site (White Alice site) is located in the Matanuska-Susitna Valley of Southcentral Alaska, between Palmer and Wasilla, approx. 54 miles northeast of Anchorage. The main tract is located west of the Neklason Lake access from Bogart Road, in the NE¼, SW¼, Section 27, T18N, R1E, Seward Meridian. A 400-foot wide by 9,420-foot long clear zone easement starts from the corner of the site and extends southwest across Finger Lake, ending in Lot 8 of Section 33.

Site History:

This site, originally 65.61 acres, was acquired from Mr. John R. Neklason by lease dated 1Oct55, and amended 3Mar56 & 30Apr56, reducing it to 14.42 acres. The area was subsequently reacquired by Warranty Deed dated 10Dec58. An additional 38.85 acres were acquired for the clear zone easement (communications path) across Finger Lake from five private owners through perpetual easement deeds between September 1960 and March 1961. Another 12.34 acres were obtained from BLM on 15Feb60.

Remarks:

A site visit was made by A/E contractor, URS Corporation of Anchorage, on 17Jul86. Debris encountered: concrete footings and slab, reported PCB containing filter capacitors, and two dump sites possibly containing wastes. A follow-up phone conversation was made between the Alaska District and Mr. Dennis Adamson of Alascom, Inc., on 6Sep91, to confirm the condition of the site. Alascom has extracted and cleaned the USTs and excavated the garage. No debris qualifies for FUDS program.
